CONTRIBUTORS' NOTES

Bonnie Cave Bradley, a teacher of piano and music theory since 1970, has an M.A. in music history from the University of Kentucky. She is currently doing research on twentieth-century Kentucky musicians.

Carl B. Cone is Professor of History, emeritus, at the University of Kentucky. His most recent book is Hounds in the Morning (University Press of Kentucky, 1981). Earlier works include The English Jacobins (Scribner, 1968) and Burke and the Nature of Politics (2 vols., University of Kentucky Press, 1957-64).

Madeline Covi, a native Louisvillian, has long been interested in the work of Madison Cawein. Her articles about him have appeared in the University of Louisville Library Review and she is presently preparing an edition of his selected poems.

Bertram H. Davis, Professor of English at Florida State University, was General Secretary of the American Association of University Professors from 1967 to 1974. He is the editor of Sir John Hawkins's Life of Samuel Johnson, LL.D. (Jonathan Cape, 1962) and the author of Johnson Before Boswell (Yale University Press, 1960), A Proof of Eminence: The Life of Sir John Hawkins (Indiana University, 1972), and Thomas Percy (Twayne, 1981). He is currently writing another biographical study of Thomas Percy.

John T. Shawcross is Professor of English at the University of Kentucky and President of the University of Kentucky Library Associates. His "Library Note" on the John Milton Collection in the Margaret I. King Library appeared in the Kentucky Review, volume II, number 3. He has written numerous other articles on seventeenth-century literature, and edited several books as well.

Sylvia Bailey Shurbutt teaches English at Georgia Southern College and is a published poet. Her dissertation at the University of Georgia dealt with Matthew Arnold's concept of nature, and she is the author of articles on Katherine Anne Porter, Edgar Lee Masters, and Emily Dickinson. At present she is finishing a biography of Mary Wollstonecraft.

Terry Warth is cataloger in the Department of Special Collections, University of Kentucky Libraries, with an insatiable appetite for perusing cookbooks, if not for cooking itself.
